

Now Accepting New Students

Cuyahoga Falls— is announcing immediate , allowing more struggling high school students a second chance to graduate.

“We exceeded all graduation rate standards on our 2019 Ohio School Report Card,” Tony Pallija, Director of the , “graduating around 25% of our entire student population and allowing us to accept new students daily; we have new student enrollment throughout the year.” Subject to capacity limitations, students are accepted from any Ohio School District, but the school does not provide student transportation.

According to Pallija, at-risk high school students, ages 16-22, benefit from smaller class sizes, individualized attention, individual career plans, academic learning plans that include a variety of instructional delivery methods, and a continuum of comprehensive academic and social-emotional supports.

Schnee Learning Center is a non-profit Ohio Community School sponsored by the Office of Ohio School Sponsorship.
